SUBJECT: Asia-Pacific Regional Conference on Rural Finance and Community Development

As part of our continuing effort to enhance and strengthen our network's knowledge partnership, APRACA is organizing the Asia-Pacific Regional Conference on Rural Finance and Community Development on 23-25 March 2016 at AVANI Bangkok Riverside, Bangkok, Thailand with the theme "Responding to people-centred and innovative financial approaches towards sustainable development and inclusive growth" in partnership with the Asia-Pacific Association of Agricultural Research Institutes (APAARI).

We have invited prominent individuals and experts in the field of rural finance and community development to share their ideas, perspectives and experiences. A total of five (5) plenary and fifteen (15) thematic sessions are organized for individuals and institutions to share and disseminate their latest work. Other exciting activities are lined-up for the delegates, participants and guests.

In this regard, we are inviting you all to join this momentous and significant event in fostering better relationships and linkages between and among the members of our association and in establishing new networks to our invited guests, partners and experts. It aims to build new areas for collaborative partnership through shared knowledge including technologies, processes, services, strategies and practices and cooperative research and developed towards increase productivity, profitability and sustainable of the key players of rural and agricultural development.

The conference fee per participant inclusive of conference meals, ID, kits/materials, field visits and certificate of participation is: APRACA members = USD 250.00 and Non-APRACA Members = USD 300.00. Attached are pertinent documents for your reference and guidance.

We strongly encourage everyone to attend and participate as we work together in building stronger and dynamic financial institutions with smart, progressive and bankable clientele, people and communities in the region.

Thank you and more power to your endeavors. SEE YOU ALL IN MARCH 2016!
