Cooperative Education Field Projects

1. Introduction

As a special initiative to strengthen the cooperative movement in cooperatively under-developed states and regions, and to reduce regional disparities in development, the Government of India approved the Cooperative Education Scheme in 1976. This scheme is implemented by the National Cooperative Union of India (NCUI) with the aim of promoting cooperative principles and practices at the grassroots level. It is a Central Sector Scheme, fully funded by the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, designed to empower cooperatives and enhance their role in improving the socio-economic conditions of their members.

2. Objective

The primary objective of the scheme is to develop and promote cooperative societies in the identified project areas. These societies serve as a platform to mobilize and empower farmer members by encouraging collective efforts, sharing of resources, and mutual support. Through these cooperatives, the scheme aims to enhance the productivity of farmer members by providing them with access to education, technical guidance, and improved agricultural practices. Ultimately, the objective is to uplift their socio-economic conditions and contribute to the overall development of rural communities.

3. Approach

Intensive efforts for cooperative development through Cooperative Education, combined with farm and technical guidance, form the core of the project approach. Office bearers and members of the project-adopted societies are motivated and educated to implement business development plans through their active participation in planning business activities, operational management, and evaluation. Self Help Groups are formed by project personnel to facilitate micro-credit and promote sustainable income-generating activities. The formation and functioning of these groups are rooted in cooperative culture. All educational, farm guidance, and developmental activities are closely linked with the business development plans of PACS/LAMPS adopted by the projects for their overall development.

4. Bench Mark Survey

- A benchmark survey is a comprehensive data collection process used to establish a baseline of information against which future progress and performance can be measured.
- In the context of cooperatives, a benchmark survey helps to assess the current state of operations, member satisfaction, economic impact, and other critical factors.
- This information is crucial for setting goals, developing strategies, and monitoring progress over time.
- A benchmark survey provides valuable insights that are essential for strategic planning and continuous improvement in cooperatives.

- By systematically collecting and analysing data, cooperatives can set realistic goals, monitor progress, and make informed decisions that drive growth and member satisfaction.

5. The National Cooperative Union of India (NCUI) is implementing the Central Sector Scheme aimed at intensifying Cooperative Education across the country. This is being carried out through 34 Cooperative Education Field Projects, which include specialized Women Projects and North Eastern Region Projects. These projects are strategically located in cooperatively under-developed states, under-developed regions within developed states, and Union Territories. The purpose of this wide geographic coverage is to address regional imbalances and ensure inclusive cooperative development, as detailed below: -

6. Project Activities: -

The Project activities are divided mainly in to four parts:

- i) Educational / Development activities.
- ii) Farm / Technical guidance activities.
- iii) Socio-Developmental activities.
- iv) Women development activities.

- i. Educational / Development activities: Educational and Development activities are designed to empower members with the knowledge and skills needed to enhance their personal development, improve the cooperative's operations, and contribute positively to their communities. The Educational and Development activities, cooperatives can enhance the capabilities of their members, improve operational efficiency, and contribute to the overall success and sustainability of the cooperative.
- ii. Farm / Technical guidance activities: Farm and Technical guidance activities are crucial for enhancing the productivity, sustainability, and profitability of farming operations. These activities provide members with the knowledge, skills, and tools needed to adopt best practices, implement new technologies, and improve their overall agricultural performance. The Farm and Technical guidance activities, cooperatives can enhance the knowledge, skills, and productivity of their members, leading to improved agricultural practices, increased incomes, and sustainable development.
- iii. Socio-Developmental activities: Socio-developmental activities focus on improving the social, economic, and cultural well-being of their members and the communities they serve. These activities help cooperatives to contribute to the overall development of society while fostering a sense of community, solidarity, and mutual aid. Through these initiatives, the NCRC is gradually emerging as a centre of excellence for cooperative education and policy advisory. The Centre not only supports capacity building at the grassroots but also provides a structured platform for standardizing and upgrading cooperative training nationwide. Through the fusion of academic expertise and practical sector-specific insights, the NCRC is helping transform cooperatives into dynamic, resilient, and professionally managed institutions.

II. Cooperative Extension and Advisory Services (CEAS)

In response to the directives issued by the Hon'ble Union Minister of Home Affairs and Cooperation on 1st September 2022, the National Cooperative Union of India (NCUI) established the Cooperative Extension and Advisory Services (CEAS) Division in December 2022. CEAS works as the outreach and implementation arm of NCUI, helping to strengthen and support Cooperative Extension Institutions like State Cooperative Unions (SCUs) and Junior Cooperative Training Centres (JCTCs). Its mission is to reinforce and deepen the cooperative movement through a multi-dimensional strategy encompassing capacity building, advisory services, research, awareness generation, and the promotion of new and existing cooperatives.

A key highlight of CEAS's initiatives is the development and expansion of the CEAS-LMS Portal (<https://ncuicoop.education>), a Learning Management System (LMS) platform created to provide cooperative education to a wide and diverse audience efficiently. The portal integrates four major components: the Learning Management System (LMS) that offers structured courses and certification; the Cooperative Resource Center (CRC) for collaboration and knowledge sharing; the Query Management System (QMS) for Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs), expert guidance and query resolution; and interactive e-courses tailored for remote and professional learners. As of March 31, 2025, the platform has attracted 1,468 registered users, 82,600 visitors, 1,094 course enrollments, and 215 course completions, marking a significant rise in digital adoption within the cooperative sector.

Particulars/ Status	As on 31 st December 2024	As on 31 st March 2025
Registrations	1272	1468
Visitors	56,771	82,600
Courses enrolled	1,001	1,094
Courses Completed	189	215
Courses on-going	812	879

To drive engagement on the portal, NCUI has undertaken comprehensive promotional campaigns through its official social media handles on Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn. The CEAS-LMS Portal is routinely introduced in NCUI's training programmes, particularly by the National Centre for Cooperative Education (NCCE), where live demonstrations are conducted. Additionally, the CoopConnect Programme, designed to engage youth in cooperative education, has incorporated CEAS-LMS Portal awareness sessions to ensure outreach to a younger demographic. These collective efforts have significantly enhanced visibility and adoption of the platform across various user groups.

CEAS has actively expanded its academic outreach by conducting "Orientation cum Awareness Generation" sessions at institutions such as Birsa Agriculture University, Kerala State Agricultural University, and Sri Balaji University. It also introduced the certificate programme "Coops4SRD: Sustainable Rural Development" tailored for agriculture and agribusiness management students, with two successful batches held in March 2024 and 2025.

To engage youth, the Coops4GenNext Knowledge Series was launched on World Youth Skills Day 2023, featuring expert-led sessions on cooperative innovations, PACS diversification, and millet promotion. Sector-specific webinars and Training of Trainers (ToT) Programmes have also enhanced cooperative capacity in areas like housing and PACS transformation.

To ensure regional accessibility, CEAS is working towards developing the training modules in 12 vernacular languages i.e. Hindi, Marathi, Gujarati, Bengali, Kannada, Assamese, Tamil, Odia, Telugu, Malayalam, Punjabi, Manipuri/Maiti. Currently, CEAS has developed PACS course content in Hindi and Marathi, covering governance, finance, marketing, and diversification. The division also launched fee-based e-courses through the LMS portal, including "Management of Cooperative Housing Societies" and "Election for E-type Cooperative Housing Societies," in collaboration with the Maharashtra State Cooperative Housing Federation.

Further strengthening its training mandate, CEAS introduced new training programmes sponsored by the Ministry of Cooperation under the Cooperative Education Fund (CEF), aimed at enhancing the capabilities of Cooperative Information Officers (CIOs) and Non-Credit Multi-State Cooperative Societies (MSCSs).

Through its wide range of activities, the Cooperative Extension and Advisory Services (CEAS) Division is playing an important role in strengthening cooperative education and outreach in India. Through digital platforms and collaboration with training institutions and youth, CEAS is empowering cooperatives to become more informed, skilled, and prepared for future challenges.

NCUI HAAT

NCUI HAAT is a novel initiative taken by National Cooperative Union of India (NCUI) to empower lesser known Cooperative and Women Self Help Groups. It is a connecting bridge between people of Delhi, the Artisans and Craftsmen from rural India.
